Questions were asked by FOOM regarding FOOM advertising Fees in the Crier. They would like the fees waived since they are a non profit. Bev Parker, President and Barb Mason, Vice President agreed to waive the fees but to limit the number of ads so as not dominate the Crier. Fees will be waived.

Foom needs to put in writing that they will Gift the Playscape to VOMCA so it can be covered on insurance policy, according to President Bev Parker who spoke to the insurance company.

SUMMARY of AA Police CORPORAL MacAdoo's REMARKS

Meeting Notes from April 2017

Corporal MacAdoo from the AACo Police Department was our guest speaker last night to pass on reminders of how to help keep us safe...most are common sense and suggestions we've heard before, but always worth a reminder...

His biggest message was "If you see something, say something!" As we make phone calls to the police and they come out, they can start to watch for 'trends' in our community, request police conduct additional drives thru our community to heighten the police presence, and potentially have police sitting in areas where we have a lot of traffic (like at Barlowe Field) while they are working on reports. Making phone calls and having the police come out will also help them learn who some of our "repeat" offenders are and after a couple times of asking the offenders to move on or whatever, the police can then say 'you've been warned more than once, now we are taking action'.

Not sure what numbers to call:

If it is an emergency call 911

Non-emergency number 410-222-8610

Eastern District station number 410-222-6145

He said most vehicle thefts are people with addiction issues looking for quick money or items they can quickly/easily sell for money...they are going thru checking car doors looking for doors that are unlocked. So, his suggestions were:

1. Lock your vehicles and secure your valuables (don't leave items out in your vehicle that people can see).
2. Leave outside lights on.
3. Consider adding surveillance cameras to your house. They have really come down in price, are easy to use and install and then you could have a video image of the offender that you can share with the police and then they share that image with all the police and possibly on their fb page looking for leads.
4. Follow AACo police on fb

Did you know there is a traffic car coordinator who deals with concerns with people speeding and running stop signs and drivers who don't stop behind busses. Call Eastern District and ask for the traffic car coordinator and express your concerns.

Obviously the more details you can provide when calling in a report the better. He said most people now a days have cell phones...snap a picture of the offender, vehicle, etc.

He also mentioned that the police love being out in the communities meeting parents and children. He did comment on how he quite often over hears parents telling children, 'oh, there's a police officer, you better be good' he said by saying that we are giving our children the impression that the police are the bad guys. They would rather we introduce ourselves and our children to them so our children can see the police as good guys and not bad guys.

Here's to working as a community to help keep us and our families safe!

Notes for this summary were taken by Andi Campbell

This is worth reviewing what Corporal MacAdoo had to say a year ago. Comments requested. board@vomca.org

Thank You From Friends Of Olde Mill

We would like to thank anyone who helped with and supported our Community Build Days for the improvement of the playscape for our children.

Mulch was delivered and spread on the various play areas, Boards were adjusted and tightened after freezing and thawing in the winter cold and a new sand box was created under the pergola.

This last Community Build Day

Saw the construction of benches and balance Beams added to the playscape. We thank Randal Stites For his leadership in this endeavor and with his son, Ryan Making these additions a reality and thanks to Anyone else who helped create these additions in any way. The balance beams and benches will soon be ready for use.

On another note: Long-time member and current President of FOOM, Lianne Rostad is Resigning as of June 10, 2018.

Her successor will be Reese Szverra.

We welcome her and hope everyone will support her in this busy and Demanding volunteer project.
